Investment Strategy

- The investment universe will encompass traditional asset classes (for example, equities and fixed income securities) and alternative asset classes (for example, real estate investment trusts, convertibles, preferred securities and currencies).

KEY RISKS

Product-Specific Risks

- You are exposed to foreign exchange / currency risk.
    - Where investments are denominated in a currency that is different from the currency of denomination of the Sub-Fund or the relevant Class, fluctuations of the exchange rates of such currencies against the currency of the Sub-Fund or Class may affect the value of Units. The Managers may hedge the foreign currency exposure of the Sub-Fund or Class and may adopt an active or passive currency management approach. Foreign currency exposure may not be fully hedged depending on circumstances of each case, including the outlook, hedging costs and market liquidity of the relevant currency.
    - Where a Class is not denominated in SGD, changes in the exchange rate between SGD and the Class currency may adversely affect the value of the Units of such Class, as expressed in the Class currency.
    - Hedged Classes: In the case of Hedged Classes, the Managers currently adopt a passive hedging policy. Notwithstanding the above, the Managers retain the discretion to adopt any other hedging policy as they may determine from time to time. There can be no guarantee that the hedging strategy applied in a Hedged Class will entirely eliminate the adverse effects of changes in exchange rates.
  - You are exposed to derivatives risks.
    - Investments in FDIs are subject to risks associated with FDIs including leverage risk and short sale risk. An investment in a FDI (including foreign exchange forward contracts and equity index future contracts) may require the deposit of an initial margin and additional deposit of margin on short notice if the market moves against the investment position. If the required margin is not provided in time, the investment may be liquidated at a loss. Therefore, it is essential that investments in FDIs are monitored closely. The Managers have controls for investments in FDIs and have in place systems to monitor the FDI positions of the Sub-Fund.
  - You are exposed to risks relating to distributions.
    - Dividend/interest income may be adversely affected by e.g. investee entities suffering unexpected losses and/or paying lower than expected dividends, and currency fluctuations. Distributions from capital may reduce part of your original investment and result in reduced future returns. Distributions (out of capital or otherwise) may have the effect of lowering the Sub-Fund's NAV.
- You should be aware that the Sub-Fund may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time.

- The net realisation proceeds that you will receive will be the realisation price of the relevant Class of the Sub-Fund multiplied by the number of Units realised, less any charges. An example is as follows:

Product-Specific Risks

- You are exposed to political, regulatory and legal risk.
    - The Sub-Fund’s investments may be adversely affected by international political developments, exchange controls, taxation, monetary and fiscal policies, foreign investment policies, government policies, restrictions on repatriation of investments and other changes in the laws and regulations in the relevant countries.
  - You are exposed to concentration risk.
    - Concentration of investments in a relatively small number of securities, sectors or industries, or geographical regions may significantly affect performance.
  - You are exposed to foreign exchange / currency risk.
    - Where investments are denominated in a currency that is different from the currency of denomination of the Sub-Fund or (as the case may be) relevant Class, fluctuations of the exchange rates of such currencies against the currency of the Sub-Fund or Class may affect the value of Units. The Managers may hedge the foreign currency exposure of the Sub-Fund or Class and may adopt an active or passive currency management approach. Foreign currency exposure may not be fully hedged depending on circumstances of each case, including the outlook, hedging costs and market liquidity of the relevant currency.
    - Where a Class is not denominated in SGD, changes in the exchange rate between SGD and the Class currency may adversely affect the value of the Units of such Class, as expressed in the Class currency.
    - Hedged Classes: In the case of Hedged Classes, the Managers currently adopt a passive hedging policy. Notwithstanding the above, the Managers retain the discretion to adopt any other hedging policy as they may determine from time to time. There can be no guarantee that the hedging strategy applied in a Hedged Class will entirely eliminate the adverse effects of changes in exchange rates.
  - You are exposed to derivatives risks.
    - Investments in FDIs are subject to risks associated with FDIs including leverage risk and short sale risk. An investment in a FDI (including foreign exchange forward contracts and equity index future contracts) may require the deposit of an initial margin and additional deposit of margin on short notice if the market moves against the investment position. If the required margin is not provided in time, the investment may be liquidated at a loss. Therefore, it is essential that investments in FDIs are monitored closely. The Managers have controls for investments in FDIs and have in place systems to monitor the FDI positions of the Sub-Fund.
  - You are exposed to risks relating to distributions.
    - Dividend/interest income may be adversely affected by e.g. investee entities suffering unexpected losses and/or paying lower than expected dividends, and currency fluctuations. Distributions from capital may reduce part of your original investment and result in reduced future returns. Distributions (out of capital or otherwise) may have the effect of lowering the Sub-Fund’s NAV.
- You should be aware that the Sub-Fund may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time.

The Managers may hedge the foreign currency exposure of the Sub-Fund or Class and may adopt an active or passive currency management approach. Foreign currency exposure may not be fully hedged depending on circumstances of each case, including the outlook, hedging costs and market liquidity of the relevant currency.

- You are exposed to derivatives risks.
    - Investments in FDIs are subject to risks associated with FDIs including leverage risk and short sale risk. An investment in a FDI (including foreign exchange forward contracts and equity index future contracts) may require the deposit of an initial margin and additional deposit of margin on short notice if the market moves against the investment position. If the required margin is not provided in time, the investment may be liquidated at a loss. Therefore, it is essential that investments in FDIs are monitored closely. The Managers have controls for investments in FDIs and have in place systems to monitor the FDI positions of the Sub-Fund.
  - You are exposed to risks associated with Underlying Entities.
    - The Sub-Fund is indirectly exposed to risks associated with its Underlying Entities, including:
      - no control over how 3rd party managers make investments or whether they will act in accordance the representations made by them;
      - the Sub-Fund's NAV may be affected or delayed by issues in the valuation of the Underlying Funds; the Underlying Funds may invest in FDIs, which may amplify a gain or loss, potentially earning or losing substantially more money than the actual cost of the FDI;
      - the Sub-Fund will bear indirectly fees charged by the managers and other service providers of its Underlying Entities;
      - each strategy employed by the Underlying Entities typically will involve a different set of complex risks, many of which are not described in the Prospectus.

Product-Specific Risks

Foreign currency exposure may not be fully hedged depending on circumstances of each case, including the outlook, hedging costs and market liquidity of the relevant currency.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>

- o Where a Class is not denominated in SGD, changes in the exchange rate between SGD and the Class currency may adversely affect the value of the Units of such Class, as expressed in the Class currency.
  - o Hedged Classes: In the case of Hedged Classes, the Managers currently adopt a passive hedging policy. Notwithstanding the above, the Managers retain the discretion to adopt any other hedging policy as they may determine from time to time. There can be no guarantee that the hedging strategy applied in a Hedged Class will entirely eliminate the adverse effects of changes in exchange rates.
  - You are exposed to derivatives risks.
    - o Investments in FDIs are subject to risks associated with FDIs including leverage risk and short sale risk. An investment in a FDI (including foreign exchange forward contracts and equity index future contracts) may require the deposit of an initial margin and additional deposit of margin on short notice if the market moves against the investment position. If the required margin is not provided in time, the investment may be liquidated at a loss. Therefore, it is essential that investments in FDIs are monitored closely. The Managers have controls for investments in FDIs and have in place systems to monitor the FDI positions of the Sub-Fund.
  - You are exposed to risks associated with Underlying Entities.
    - o The Sub-Fund is indirectly exposed to risks associated with its Underlying Entities, including:
      - no control over how 3rd party managers make investments or whether they will act in accordance the representations made by them;
      - the Sub-Fund's NAV may be affected or delayed by issues in the valuation of the Underlying Funds;
      - the Underlying Funds may invest in FDIs, which may amplify a gain or loss, potentially earning or losing substantially more money than the actual cost of the FDI;
      - the Sub-Fund will bear indirectly fees charged by the managers and other service providers of its Underlying Entities;
      - each strategy employed by the Underlying Entities typically will involve a different set of complex risks, many of which are not described in the Prospectus.
  - You are exposed to risks relating to distributions.
    - o Dividend/interest income may be adversely affected by e.g. investee entities suffering unexpected losses and/or paying lower than expected dividends, and currency fluctuations. Distributions from capital may reduce part of your original investment and result in reduced future returns. Distributions (out of capital or otherwise) may have the effect of lowering the Sub-Fund's NAV.
- You should be aware that the Sub-Fund may be exposed to other risks of an exceptional nature from time to time.
